Knowledge Mobilization Activities Updated: February 2018

NOTE: This list includes KM initiatives arising out of OTM-funded work as well as relevant KM initiatives by team members supported through other grants and activities. OTM trainees and affiliated trainees indicated in bold.

1. RESEARCH TOOLS (E.G. DATABASES, ARCHIVES, DIRECTORIES, BIBLIOGRAPHIES, ETC.)

- Refworks: On the Move's publically available Reference Database (Refworks) is available here: <http://www.onthemovepartnership.ca/resources/ergm-database/>.
  - As of January 29, 2018, there are 5511 references in Refworks including: 2259 journal articles; 1357 media (e.g. CBC online articles, newspaper articles etc.); 651 reports; 405 books; 223 book sections; 67 conference proceedings; 73 dissertations; and 476 other references (e.g. media releases, sound recording, video/DVD, online discussion forms, generic, laws/statutes, unpublished material etc.).
  - References are organized into thematic folders; these are:
    - apprenticeship and education
    - commuting
    - construction
    - ERGM
    - extended commuting
    - family & gender
    - fisheries
    - Fort McMurray
    - gender & commuting
    - gender & precarious work
    - health care
    - housing
    - impacts of declining commodity prices
    - labour market
    - media (3 folders)
    - methodology
    - military
    - mobility theory
    - NS component
    - occupational health and safety

- On the Move Partnership media
  - oil and gas sector
  - precarious employment
  - rhythms
  - rhythmanalysis
  - seafarers
  - service sector
  - temporary agriculture workers
  - temporary foreign workers (2 folders)
  - trainees
  - transport
  - work camps
- Interviews and Cross-Component Data Sharing

OTM field researchers and a few policy researchers have completed more than 850 interviews to date as well as six anonymous surveys of diverse groups, and multiple focus groups. Most fieldwork is coming to a close but some is still ongoing. The recordings and notes from this field research are in varying states of transcription and coding. Access to the resulting data and datasets will be governed by the consent process, with some recordings, transcripts and databases ultimately open access, but for most access to original transcripts will be limited to component teams or even, in a few cases, to individual researchers.

  - Multiple datasets have been accessed through Statistics Canada including taxfiler and census data on fish harvesters, on Atlantic inter-provincially mobile workers at provincial, regional and community levels. Funding for these datasets has come from On the Move, the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Fund and from the Canadian Council of Professional Fish Harvesters via a contract from the federal government for a study on occupational pluralism among Canadian fish harvesters. Michael Haan currently has a postdoctoral researcher working with the Temporary Foreign Worker database now at Statistics Canada examining patterns of internal mobility within Canada and a second research assistant doing an analysis of excess commuting (>200 km) for the construction sector across Canada down to the level of individual trades.
  - Dataset from an anonymous household survey (33 respondents) of young workers in Banff (Angéle Smith)
  - OTM has funded coding and analysis of a dataset from research funded by the federal government, produced by Delphine Nackache with collaboration from Sara Dorow and based on data from 48 interviews focused on temporary foreign workers in Alberta.
  - Database from anonymous online survey with 56 Live-in Caregivers in Fort McMurray, Alberta (Dorow, Cassiano and Doerksen in Fort McMurray. The resulting report can be found here: <http://www.onthemovepartnership.ca/wp-content/uploads/2015/01/Live-in-Caregivers-in-Fort-McMurray-Dorow-et-al.-January-2015.pdf>.

- Dataset documenting the history of and volume of fly-in/fly-out operations in Fort McMurray between 2004 and 2014, numbers of camps and migrant workers or shadow population in the Wood Buffalo Region (Marcella Cassiano and Sara Dorow).
- Dataset from 50 cross-component interviews among migrant workers in camps in the Municipality of Wood Buffalo (Sara Dorow, Marcella Cassiano and Sandrine Jean).
- Dataset from 30 confidential interviews with precariously employed immigrant workers in Toronto (Premji).
- Quebec research is ongoing with a total of 50 interviews anticipated. These are being used as the basis for an on-line database using the Centre for Oral History and Digital Storytelling Stories Matter program. The Quebec Component has also done extensive archival research (Steven High).
- Dataset from online survey of professional and semi-professional health care workers in Nova Scotia (Michael Leiter, Lois Jackson, Ivy Bourgeault).
- Database from 131 anonymous surveys with Long Harbour nickel processing workers (Josh Barrett, Heather Hall and Kelly Vodden).
- Dataset from anonymous online survey with HR representatives (Kara Arnold).
- Dataset from anonymous online survey with union representatives on E-RGM and their membership (Elise Thorburn).
- NL construction key informant and oral histories coded N-Vivo dataset (54 interviews).
- NL apprentice and pre-apprentice focus group and interview dataset (Nicole Power).
- A collection of media stories from local, provincial, and national newspapers that will be tracked and expanded on throughout the term of the project (Greg Halseth/Sean Markey).
- A collection of data concerning changes in commodity prices and issues with companies within the mining sector (e.g. temporary foreign workers in Tumbler Ridge) (Greg Halseth/Sean Markey)
- Compiling labour market reviews (hiring/wages/work sectors/housing) to create historical overview and analysis for Golden / Banff. This work has continued since October 2016 and has included a collection of census reports and tracking statistics in the labour market reports pertaining to tourism workers and temporary foreign workers. (Angèle Smith).
- Database of labour used on BC Hydro's Site C Project; includes the total number of workers, the # of workers from BC, the # of workers from the Peace River Region, # of temporary foreign workers, and # of workers from International Mobility Program. The database starts in August 2015. (Sean Markey/Greg Halseth).

- Photo essaying, initial introductory on-site interviews with Town of Banff officials and advocacy organizations, and initial demographic information data collection (Angèle Smith).
- The completion of community and regional socio-economic profiles for our two case study communities of Williams Lake and Mackenzie (Greg Halseth/Sean Markey).
- Timeline of policy issues relating to temporary foreign workers updated to winter 2017. This includes looking at any changes at the federal government policy and program level. It also includes the development of a bibliography of secondary literature that has looked at the TFW program from 2014 to current, newspaper articles, and federal reports that have depicted key issues with this topic area. There was a federal review of the TFW program in 2016; a synopsis of this has been created (Catherine Nolin and Angèle Smith).

2. WEBSITES, WEBINARS, SOCIAL MEDIA & BLOGS

2A. WEBSITES

- On the Move Partnership (www.onthemovepartnership.ca).
  - Google Analytics (between January 1, 2014 and January 30 2018): Google Analytics demonstrates that the On the Move website overall has received 33,647 session views and 89,447 page views between January 1, 2014 and January 30, 2018). 60% of users are based in Canada and 10.5% are based in the U.S., but visitors also come from Brazil, China, the UK, Germany, France, Australia, and Russia.
  - The website contains many examples of knowledge mobilization, such as stories/articles and video/audio clips. Examples of these (also in the Media section) can be found in the “On the Go” section on the home page.
  - A full list of researchers, staff, partners, and trainees is available on the website for media and/or other academic interest: <http://www.onthemovepartnership.ca/people/>
  - A selection of working papers and publications are published in the “Results” section: <http://www.onthemovepartnership.ca/results/>
  - A collection of media and a listing of events and conferences are located in the “News & Events” section: <http://www.onthemovepartnership.ca/newsandevents/>.
- Mapping Life in Fort McMurray (<http://mappingmcmurray.com/>). The Department of Sociology at the University of Alberta created a website titled Mapping Life in Fort McMurray, which “is the product of a diverse set of research interviews conducted in Northern Alberta, Canada.” The site is affiliated with the University of Alberta’s Sociology Department and was supported by a number of grants, including 1) On the Move: Employment-Related Geographical Mobility in the Canadian Context, SSHRC Partnership Grant – Dr. Sara Dorow, Susan Cake and Marcella Cassiano, and (2) Social Landscapes of Fort McMurray, SSHRC Research Grant – Dr. Sara Dorow and Goze Dogu.

- On the Move: Mobile Lives in the Post-Industrial City (<http://postindustrialmontreal.ca/project/move>). The Montreal team developed bilingual web-pages for OTM on the websites of the Centre for Oral History and Digital Storytelling and Post-Industrial Montreal.
- Rural Resilience (<http://ruralresilience.ca/>). Rural Resilience is a website featuring the work of a group of researchers (community-based, government and academic) focused on rural and regional development issues. The website showcases current and recently complete research initiatives, including On the Move.
- Towards an Ethnography of Mobile Tourism Industry Workers in Banff National Park (<http://www.banfftourismworkers.com>). Developed by Smith.
