SUMMARY
KNOWLEDGE MOBILIZATION ACTIVITIES

A summary of the variety and number of Knowledge Mobilization (KM) initiatives is listed below. It includes KM initiatives arising out of On the Move (OTM)-funded work as well as relevant KM initiatives by team members supported through other grants and activities.

Of the 1,024 KM initiatives engaged in to date, 213 are trainee initiatives (presentations, thesis, reports, organized sessions, blog posts, interviews, etc.) and 188 include one or more trainee participants (co-authored presentations/publications, co-organized session, etc.). Included in the trainee numbers are five trainees who have converted to co-investigators.

KNOWLEDGE MOBILIZATION ACTIVITIES
Updated: September 2019

This list includes knowledge Mobilization (KM) initiatives arising out of On the Move (OTM)-funded work as well as relevant KM initiatives by team members supported through other grants and activities. OTM trainees and affiliated trainees are indicated in bold.

1. RESEARCH TOOLS
   (e.g. databases, archives, directories, bibliographies, etc.)

1A. REFWORKS DATABASE

On the Move’s publically available Reference Database (Refworks) is available at: http://www.onthemovepartnership.ca/resources/ergm-database/.

As of September 20, 2019 there are 5802 references in RefWorks including: 2611 journal articles, 1485 media (including CBC online articles, newspaper articles etc.) reports, 428 books, 233 book sections, 71 conference proceedings, 77 dissertations, and 493 other references e.g. media releases, sound recording, video/DVD, online discussion forms, generic, laws/statutes, unpublished material etc.).

References are organized into thematic folders including folders for:

- apprenticeship and education
- commuting
- construction
- ERGM
- extended commuting
- family & gender
- fisheries
- Fort McMurray
- gender & commuting
- gender & precarious work
- health care
- housing
- impacts of declining commodity prices
- labour market

- seafarers
- service sector
- temporary agriculture workers
- temporary foreign workers (2 folders)
- trainees
- transport
- work camps
1B. INTERVIEWS AND COMPONENT DATA SHARING

Interviews and Surveys

OTM field researchers and a few policy researchers have completed more than 850 interviews to date as well as six anonymous surveys of diverse groups, and multiple focus groups. Most fieldwork is now completed. The recordings and notes from this field research are in varying states of coding and analysis. Access to the resulting data and datasets will be governed by the consent process, with some recordings, transcripts and databases ultimately open access, but for most access to original transcripts will be limited to component teams or even, in a few cases, to individual researchers.

Component Databases

- Multiple datasets have been accessed through Statistics Canada including taxfiler and census data on fish harvesters and on Atlantic inter-provincially mobile workers at provincial, regional and community levels. Funding for these datasets has come from On the Move, the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Fund and from the Canadian Council of Professional Fish Harvesters via a contract from the federal government for a study on occupational pluralism among Canadian fish harvesters.

- Michael Haan currently has a postdoctoral researcher working with the Temporary Foreign Worker database now at Statistics Canada examining patterns of internal mobility within Canada and a second research assistant doing an analysis of excess commuting (>200 km) for the construction sector across Canada down to the level of individual trades using Census Data.

- Dataset from an anonymous household survey (33 respondents) of young workers in Banff (Angèle Smith).

- OTM has funded coding and analysis of a dataset from research funded by the federal government, produced by Delphine Nackache with collaboration from Sara Dorow and based on data from 48 interviews focused on temporary foreign workers in Alberta.

- Dataset documenting the history of and volume of fly-in/fly-out operations in Fort McMurray between 2004 and 2014, numbers of camps and migrant workers or shadow population in the Wood Buffalo Region (Marcella Cassiano and Sara Dorow).

- Dataset from 50 cross-component interviews among migrant workers in camps in the Municipality of Wood Buffalo (Sara Dorow, Marcella Cassiano and Sandrine Jean).
• Dataset from 30 confidential interviews with precariously employed immigrant workers in Toronto (Premji).

• Quebec research is ongoing with a total of 50 interviews anticipated. These are being used as the basis for an on-line database using the Centre for Oral History and Digital Storytelling Stories Matter program. The Quebec Component has also done extensive archival research (Steven High).

• Dataset from online survey of professional and semi-professional health care workers in Nova Scotia (Michael Leiter, Lois Jackson, Ivy Bourgeault).

• Database from 131 anonymous surveys with Long Harbour nickel processing workers (Josh Barrett, Heather Hall and Kelly Vodden).

• Dataset from anonymous online survey with HR representatives (Kara Arnold).

• Dataset from anonymous online survey with union representatives on E-RGM and their membership (Elise Thorburn).

• NL construction key informant and oral histories coded N-Vivo dataset (54 interviews).

• NL apprentice and pre-apprentice focus group and interview dataset (Nicole Power).

• A collection of media stories from local, provincial, and national newspapers that will be tracked and expanded on throughout the term of the project (Greg Halseth/Sean Markey).

• A collection of data concerning changes in commodity prices and issues with companies within the mining sector (e.g. temporary foreign workers in Tumbler Ridge) (Greg Halseth/Sean Markey).

• Compiling labour market reviews (hiring/wages/work sectors/housing) to create historical overview and analysis for Golden / Banff. This work has continued since October 2016 and has included a collection of census reports and tracking statistics in the labour market reports pertaining to tourism workers and temporary foreign workers. (Angèle Smith).

• Database of labour used on BC Hydro’s Site C Project; includes the total number of workers, the # of workers from BC, the # of workers from the Peace River Region, # of temporary foreign workers, and # of workers from International Mobility Program. The database starts in August 2015. (Sean Markey/Greg Halseth).

  o Photo essaying, initial introductory on-site interviews with Town of Banff officials and advocacy organizations, and initial demographic information data collection (Angèle Smith).

  o The completion of community and regional socio-economic profiles for our two case study communities of Williams Lake and Mackenzie (Greg Halseth/Sean Markey).
Timeline of policy issues relating to temporary foreign workers updated to winter 2017. This includes looking at any changes at the federal government policy and program level. It also includes the development of a bibliography of secondary literature that has looked at the TFW program from 2014 to current, newspaper articles, and federal reports that have depicted key issues with this topic area. There was a federal review of the TFW program in 2016; a synopsis of this has been created (Catherine Nolin and Angéle Smith).

2. WEBSITES, WEBPAGES, SOCIAL MEDIA AND BLOGS

2A. WEBSITES AND WEBPAGES

On the Move Partnership Website

- Google Analytics (between January 1, 2014 and September 15, 2019):
  - Google Analytics demonstrates that the On the Move website overall has received 46,231 sessions and 117,000 page views, from 35,354 users (the majority first time users) between January 1, 2014 and September 15, 2019.
  - 68% of users are based in Canada and 12% are based in the U.S., but visitors also come from France, Russia, South Korea, the UK, India, Germany, and Australia.
  - As a smaller sample, from June 1, 2019 – September 15, 2019 we received 1,856 sessions and 3,832 page views from 1,585 users mainly from Canada (72%) and the US (12%).

OTM Thematic Webpages

- Alberta Stories shares the stories of work-related mobility from three different groups of people: Indigenous people (Métis in northeastern Alberta), Interprovincial/Interregional labour migrants (long-distance commuters to the Oil Sands region), and International labour migrants (temporary work permit holders in central and northern Alberta). Diverse experiences and impacts of E-RGM are found within and across the three sets of stories. At the same time, the stories collectively illuminate the importance of mobilities – and the immobilities that go with them – to the opening up and closing down of life opportunities for people. They show how mobility for work both shapes and is shaped by family situations, socio-historical identities, and communal places and networks. While ‘mobility for work’ mostly refers to paid employment, it also, importantly, includes unpaid labour such as care work or harvesting. http://albertastories.onthemovepartnership.ca/

- In the summer of 2018, researchers from On the Move convened in Fort St. John, BC, in partnership with the City of Fort St. John, The Forge, and the University of Northern British Columbia's Community Development Institute to deliver a series of roundtables with area industry and business, local government, education, health, non-profit, and other service sector stakeholders. We've created a webpage to highlight the work done at these roundtables. [http://www.onthemovepartnership.ca/results/fort-st-john/]

Related Websites

- Mapping Life in Fort McMurray (http://mappingmcmurray.com/). A team at the Department of Sociology at the University of Alberta created a website titled Mapping Life in Fort McMurray, which “is the product of a diverse set of research interviews conducted in Northern Alberta, Canada.” The site was supported by a number of grants, including 1) On the Move: Employment-Related Geographical Mobility in the Canadian Context, SSHRC Partnership Grant – Dr. Sara Dorow, Susan Cake and Marcella Cassiano, and (2) Social Landscapes of Fort McMurray, SSHRC Research Grant – Dr. Sara Dorow and Goze Dogu.

- Rural Resilience (http://ruralresilience.ca/). Rural Resilience is a website featuring the work of a group of researchers (community-based, government and academic) focused on rural and regional development issues. The website showcases current and recently complete research initiatives, including On the Move.

- Towards an Ethnography of Mobile Tourism Industry Workers in Banff National Park (http://www.banfftourismworkers.com). Developed by Angèle Smith.

6B. Digital Stories

In Preparation

Gmelch, George and team. (Scheduled for 2019). “Aidan and Zula.”

Roseman, Sharon and team. (Scheduled for 2019). The goal of this digital story is to illustrate the various impacts of an individual worker’s sequential involvement in various forms of employment-related geographical mobility during the course of a working life. It will draw on the narration of the individual labour history of one man, from his teen years until his eighties. This story will remind viewers of the ubiquity and variety of E-RGM in Newfoundland men’s working experience during the 20th and early 21st century as well as highlight how adaptations to various forms of complex commuting and seasonal migration in the context of a specific occupation and life course stage are carried forward to later work-related mobilities.

Roseman, Sharon and team (Scheduled for 2020). “The Last Generation.” The goal is to work collaboratively with the members of the St. John’s Branch of the CN Pensioners Association to create a medium-length (20-30 minutes) digital story about their collective experiences of being pensioners who share the experience of mobile work as well as of having exited mobile work in the face of the dismantlement of a mobility system.
